

WINTER
2019

PORT TOWNSEND
ON THE HALF SHELL

GABY BAYONA
DESIGNER EXTRAORDINAIRE

INTERNATIONAL FARE
IN THE PDX SUBURBS

OnTrak

TOP Foodie DESTINATIONS

FAVORITE RESTAURANTS

BEST FESTIVALS

WHERE TO LEARN

TAKE US WITH YOU
Compliments of Amtrak Cascades

PICTURED
HERE:
Le Pigeon's seared
Idaho trout

adventure + lifestyle along the Amtrak Cascades® route

Weekender

MAKING THE MOST OF YOUR WEEKEND

Tracy Ellen Beard

Andrew Wiese

Tracy Ellen Beard

Port Townsend

Witness the resurgence of a Victorian seaport

WRITTEN BY TRACY ELLEN BEARD

IN THE LATE 1800s, city fathers poured their hopes, dreams, sweat and tears into building Port Townsend, once the second-busiest seaport on the West Coast. Constructed at the northeasternmost point of the Olympic Peninsula and along the Strait of Juan de Fuca, this city sat poised for growth in anticipation of the arrival of the Pacific Coast Railroad.

Alas, to quote the insightful words of Robert Burns, “The best-laid plans of mice and men often go awry.” Misfortune came upon the city—railroad planners bypassed Port Townsend in favor of a route on the east side of Puget Sound, and the city’s economy floundered.

No longer are the streets filled with a parade of top hats, corsets and petticoats. The lingering aroma of fish does not permeate the air, nor do people line the docks waiting to purchase wares from far away. The harbor that once teemed with seafaring traffic is now peppered with an assortment of recreational vessels.

Today, the charming Victorian seaport thrives on tourism. The city has outstanding dining options, luxurious B&Bs and a booming art scene. Historic buildings and unique shops create a delightful ambience from days gone by.

When you arrive, walk along Water Street and peruse the art galleries, quaint boutiques and Victorian shops while you treat yourself to a decadent chocolate or a scoop of ice cream from Elevated Ice Cream Co. & Candy Shop. Stroll into one of the city’s four bookstores offering readers an opportunity to escape to new worlds, live out a fantasy, or even improve their writing skills. Step back in time as you gaze upon the historic buildings, or enter the Jefferson Museum of Art and History to learn more about the seaport’s past.

Maritime activities continue to influence the city. Poke around the Northwest Maritime Center and Wooden Boat Foundation near the marina. Here you will learn about the long history of the Wooden Boat Festival, and nautical enthusiasts can sign up for programs teaching world-class boatbuilding and maritime skills.

ABOVE, CLOCKWISE FROM TOP LEFT Port Townsend sits on the Port Townsend Bay. Finistère’s chef’s tasting menu is for adventurous appetites only. The seaport has a Victorian feel. Port Townsend’s Saturday Market appeals to all ages.

EATFinistèrewww.restaurantfinistere.comFountain Caféwww.fountaincafept.comSilverwater Caféwww.silverwatercafe.comTaps at the Guardhousewww.facebook.com/tapsfortwordenSTAY*Ravenscroft Innwww.ravenscroftinn.comBliss Vista Cottage at Fort Wordenwww.fortworden.orgPLAY*Jefferson Museum of Art and Historywww.jchsmuseum.orgNorthwest Maritime Center and Wooden Boat Foundationwww.nwmaritime.orgPort Townsend
Farmers Marketwww.jcfmarkets.org/saturdayCellar Doorwww.cellardoorpt.comSirenswww.sirenspub.com

The Northwest Maritime Center and Wooden Boat Foundation celebrate all things nautical.

Art abounds in Port Townsend, and the city's calendar is filled with music festivals, writers' workshops, art walks, and year-round theater featuring plays, poetry and prose. Locals and visitors enjoy the Film Festival, which showcases all types of films, including free outdoor movies on the weekends during September.

Admiralty Distillers is open on Saturdays or by appointment. Jake Soule, the owner, will share his story while you taste his distilled creations.

Take part in the longtime tradition of afternoon tea at Pippa's Real Tea. Select a flavor you find appealing, then choose one of Pippa's delectable treats as an accompaniment. Try a slice of cake or a traditional scone, but be sure to order Pippa's authentic clotted cream—it is simply divine.

For dinner, try Finistère. Owners Scott Ross and chef Deborah Taylor devised a menu with small and large plates. Diners with adventurous appetites should order the multi-course chef's tasting menu. The potato leek soup is delicious and soothing, and the gnocchi with pork shoulder ragu and shaved parmesan will leave you convinced that you've been transported to a trattoria in Italy.

On Saturdays, walk a few blocks to the Port Townsend Saturday Market. Local farmers and purveyors line the blockaded streets with fresh produce and tasty morsels for patrons to relish. For lunch, assemble a picnic from the market, or get a bite at the Silverwater Café downtown.

Outdoor activities abound in the area, so explore the local waters by renting a kayak, rowboat, or longboat. Ride the ferry or take one of the numerous tours available near the marina. For land discoveries, enjoy one of the local trails on foot or by bike. For a diversified city walk, begin by strolling through Chetzemoka Park. Make a right at the beach and wander alongside the water down to the marina. Revel in the water's beauty and appreciate the variety of boats, then cross back to the street and meander up the hill and admire the historic homes on your way back to the park.

After exploring the outdoors, check into one of the newly renovated cottages or a historic vacation rental on Officers Row at Fort Worden State Park. The Bliss Vista Cottage sits on a hill overlooking the water with views of passing ships for your entertainment. For a drink or appetizer before dinner, stop over at Taps at the Guardhouse. If a member of your party misbehaves, put them behind bars in the old jail cell.

Dine at a longtime favorite restaurant, Fountain Café. Owner Nickolas Yates uses locally sourced ingredients in his Northwest cuisine. Choose a delicious menu item like the chicken and linguini, or branch out and order one of the specials—the lamb shank is perfect. 